

FLIP THROUGH BEFORE YOU DOWNLOAD

My First Business Workbook

Three real pages, straight off the shipping files, plus everything the full download includes.

Step 2 · What will it cost me?

Businesses spend money to make money. List every supply you need and what it costs. Ask a grown-up to help with prices.

Supply I need	Where I'll get it	Cost
		$
		$
		$
		$
Total it costs to make ONE:		$

GROWN-UP COACH PROMPT

"Help a [AGE]-year-old estimate supplies for a [THEIR BUSINESS]. List the likely supplies with their prices, note anything a family probably already owns, and show how to figure the cost of making one item with those numbers."

Step 3 · The Rule of Three (how to set your price)

A fair price covers three things: 1. My supplies, 2. My work, 3. A little extra to grow the business. Add them up — that's your price!

1 · My supplies
what one item costs to make

2 · My work
a little pay for your time

3 · A little extra
to grow the business

My price: $_____ · If I sell one, I keep: $_____

Price minus supplies = your profit. Say that word to a grown-up tonight. You're officially in business.

Step 4 · Tell the world (kid-safe marketing)

Design your sign here first — big letters, your price, one reason to buy:

My selling sentence (what I'll say to customers):

GROWN-UP COACH PROMPT

"A [AGE]-year-old is making a sign for their [BUSINESS]. Give three short, catchy slogan ideas a kid could letter by hand, and two friendly things to say when a customer walks up. No pressure-selling — neighborly and fun."

Safety, stated once, meant always: selling happens to people we know — neighbors, co-op, the block party. If anything goes online, a grown-up posts it and handles everything. Your name, face, school, and street stay off the internet. That's not a maybe: that's the deal.

SNEAK PEEK · the full workbook is 4 pages

Step 5 · Sale day — count it!

Every sale gets a tally. Afterward, do the two big subtractions with a grown-up.

What I sold	Tally	Money in
		$
		$
		$

All the money I collected: $_____

Minus what my supplies cost: – $_____

MY PROFIT: $_____ 🎉

Real entrepreneurs split profit three ways: some to keep, some to save, some to grow the business (more on that later). Do this with a grown-up.

Step 6 · What I learned

The best moment was:

Next time I would change:

My next business idea might be:

GROWN-UP COACH PROMPT · THE DEBRIEF

"Act as a friendly business coach debriefing a [AGE]-year-old's first sale day. I'll type what they said went well and what they'd change. Reply with two specific things to celebrate and one gentle question that gets them thinking about next time. Warm, brief, no jargon."

Ready for the next level? When your entrepreneur is 9–12, Launch It takes the same journey further: a real one-page business plan, market research, pitch practice, and a profit ledger. In our TpT store, next to our free Family AI Rules poster.

© Adam & Katelyn Spinozzi · AI-Ready School. Licensed to the purchasing family or educator (TpT single-user license); print freely for your own kids or class. Co-op or classroom sets? Additional licenses are half price in our TpT store. Drafted with AI assistance, then researched, revised, and approved by two certified teachers.

WHAT'S INSIDE THE FULL WORKBOOK

My First Business Workbook

- ✓ 6 steps from idea to profit — each with a kid box and a parent AI coach
- ✓ The Rule of Three: how real sellers price, at kid scale
- ✓ Sale-day tally sheet and the two subtractions that reveal PROFIT
- ✓ The safety frame: grown-ups hold the keyboard and run anything online

Running it with your whole staff? Additional teacher licenses are just $4, and we accept purchase orders through TpT for Schools.

