

EVERY SOURCE VERIFIED AGAINST THE LIVE PUBLICATION BEFORE INCLUSION

References

APA style. The note beneath each entry says exactly where the kit uses it, so any claim can be traced to its source.

Gallup, & Walton Family Foundation. (2025). Teaching for tomorrow. <https://news.gallup.com/poll/691967/three-teachers-weekly-saving-six-weeks-year.aspx>

Used for: teachers who use AI weekly save about 5.9 hours a week, with communication drafting among common uses (slide 2; prep guide; admin one-pager).

Kraft, M. A., & Rogers, T. (2015). The underutilized potential of teacher-to-parent communication: Evidence from a field experiment. Economics of Education Review, 47, 49–63. <https://www.sciencedirect.com/science/article/abs/pii/S0272775715000497>

Used for: weekly one-sentence individualized messages cut course-credit failure from 15.8% to 9.3% (41%), with improvement-focused messages most effective; the basis for the positive-note batch (slides 3 and 11; handout; admin one-pager).

Merrimack College, & EdWeek Research Center. (2022). How teachers spend their time: A breakdown. Education Week. <https://www.edweek.org/teaching-learning/how-teachers-spend-their-time-a-breakdown/2022/04>

Used for: the ~54-hour work week with under half spent directly teaching; communication lives in the margins (slide 2; prep guide; admin one-pager).

National Center for Education Statistics. (2024). English learners in public schools. Condition of Education. <https://nces.ed.gov/programs/coe/indicator/cgf/english-learners>

Used for: 10.6% of U.S. public school students (5.3 million) were English learners in fall 2021 (slide 13; handout; admin one-pager).

U.S. Department of Education, Office of Educational Technology. (2023). Artificial intelligence and the future of teaching and learning: Insights and recommendations. <https://www.ed.gov/sites/ed/files/documents/ai-report/ai-report.pdf>

Used for: the humans-in-the-loop recommendation behind "nothing reaches a family unread" (slide 7; prep guide).

U.S. Department of Justice, Civil Rights Division, & U.S. Department of Education, Office for Civil Rights. (2015). Dear Colleague Letter: English learner students and limited English proficient parents. <https://www.ed.gov/sites/ed/files/about/offices/list/ocr/letters/colleague-el-201501.pdf>

Used for: schools must communicate with limited-English-proficient parents in a language they can understand, covering the information other parents receive (slides 13–14; handout; 30-day plan; admin one-pager).

Further reading: five worth your time

- Kraft & Rogers (2015) (linked above): the one-sentence study; short, rigorous, and the best case ever made for the small personal message.
- The 2015 ED/DOJ Dear Colleague Letter (linked above): the language-access obligation in plain terms; every leadership team should have read it once.
- NCES English-learner indicator (linked above): the current numbers, state by state; useful verbatim at board meetings.

- Gallup & Walton's Teaching for Tomorrow (linked above): where teachers actually save time with AI, communication included.
- The U.S. DoE's AI report (linked above): the humans-in-the-loop framing this whole series builds on.

Our citation promise: every source in this kit was verified against the live publication, existence and claim, before inclusion. Where full author lists could not be verified, "et al." is used rather than guessed names. If a link moves, tell us and we'll ship the fix to every member school.

How this kit was made

Every AI-Ready School kit is drafted with AI assistance, the same way we teach educators to use it, then researched, fact-checked, revised, and approved by Adam and Katelyn Spinozzi, certified educators with 20+ combined years in classrooms. Nothing ships without a teacher's judgment on it.
